

Der Student,

Given the orange weather alert status issued by Met Éireann this morning, we are confirming that examinations taking place today, 9 December, will proceed as scheduled.

We are closely monitoring the status of weather warnings and will continue to follow Met Éireann guidance. Should the alert for Dublin be upgraded to red, all examinations during that period will be cancelled, and you will be notified immediately by email.

Our general advice for travel during this period is to take extra care and allow additional time for your journey.

Further information on weather warnings can be found on the Met Éireann website.

Information on the UCD Campus can be found on the UCD Estates website.

Regards,

Karen McHugh
